

Learning Support (LS) Provision

In-class, Small Group

Support is in the form of 3 classes per week whereby the LS teacher supports a small group of students. Assistance is with explanations and instructions, together with supporting and monitoring students.

Withdrawal, Small Group

Support is in the form of 3 classes per week whereby the LS teacher will work with a small group of students on specific areas of learning.

In-class, One-to-One

Support is in the form of 3 classes per week whereby the LS teacher supports an individual. Assistance is with explanations and instructions together with supporting and monitoring.

Withdrawal, One-to-One

Support is in the form of 3 classes per week whereby the LS teacher will work with an individual student on specific areas of learning.

Charges are set for a full term in advance:

Categories	Per term prices
In-class, Small Group	3,000 baht
Withdrawal, Small Group	5,400 baht
In-class, One-to-One	4,800 baht
Withdrawal, One-to-One	9,900 baht

Note: These prices are for 3 lessons per week, charges are levied at the above rates for each bundle of 3 lessons per week. As detailed below, these fees may be prorated in order to create a bespoke provision.

Is LS compulsory?

As per our Student Admission Policy, for students who are assessed to need it, Yes.

It is vital that students who need extra assistance in being able to access the curriculum, manage their behaviour or receive supplemental support beyond the curriculum are provided with this support if they are to succeed at NISB. It is therefore a requirement for students identified as needing additional support.

Parents will be invited for a meeting to discuss the provision before it is put into place to understand the aims and objectives of targeted support. If an appropriate time for a meeting cannot be found prior to billing, the meeting may occur after the provision has been put in place.

How is LS need determined?

Teachers or parents may refer students for assessment by the LS staff where there may be concerns over access to the curriculum or other needs during the school day. The LS team will work with the referrer to suggest strategies, conduct observations and, following a review, implement additional support when deemed appropriate.

Students may have an existing Educational Psychologist Report, which identifies specific learning issues and provides staff with recommended strategies to best support the student. An IEP would then be developed to implement these strategies.

In some cases, a student may be required to visit an Educational Psychologist in order to receive a full evaluation of their needs, together with recommendations for the most appropriate support to help the student reach their full potential.

What if there is LS and ELS support needed?

Both of these additional provisions are in addition to standard tuition. As such, they are each charged separately.

How much does LS support cost?

Parents are charged for LS provision at a rate determined by the Board of Governors. The rates are included in this document, which is updated annually. Where a bespoke learning provision is required, fees may be prorated in line with the published fees based on 3 classes per week.

How will these additional fees be charged?

The additional fees for LS will be labelled as Additional Tuition Fee (LS) on invoices.